NORTHFIELD

Two New Granite Plants Are Under Consideration.

The work of arranging for the two new granite sheds in Northfield is progressing favorably. The funds to aid N. Pelagii & Co. to build a shed about 30x100 feet will, it is expected, be obtained at the bank, 30 or more citizens signing two notes, one for $1,200 and the other for about $1,800 under certain conditions. After the $1,200 note has been paid the bank will take a mortgage on the shed and release the signers. The fund for the removal of the shop on the site of the proposed Burns granite shed is growing, although slowly. It is expected that the committee having this matter in charge will hold a meeting at an early day and make an effort among the citizens who have not yet subscribed and try to raise the balance in short order. This is necessary. In fact both propositions need to be closed at once in order that work may be well along before winter strikes us in earnest.

Clarence J. Hill and Jennie M. Bennett were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage, Saturday afternoon, Rev. E. W. Sharp officiating.

Miss Clara Mason, who has boarded at Mrs. Kingston's West Hill farm since June 12th, left Friday with her sister, Miss Eva Mason, for Bradford, N. H., where they will remain a few days before going to their home in Cambridge, Mass. Sixteen city guests were entertained at Mr. Kingston's West Hill farm the past season.

The officers of the Dog River Valley fair association are endeavoring to arrange a meeting of the officers of the several fairs in the state for the purpose of fixing dates for the fairs next year that will conflict the least. If this idea can be carried out it will be of great value in many ways. The horsemen will also find it very satisfactory in visiting the fairs, thus insuring them an opportunity for more race entries at the best fairs. All having the interests of the fairs at heart will undoubtedly co-operate in this movement.

Edward Nelson Wiley passed away Thursday afternoon at his home on Vine street, Northfield, after a long and painful illness, the cause of death being chronic nephritis. Mr. Wiley was born in Roxbury, June 14, 1845, and was the son of Phander and Lucy Spaulding Wiley, who were also natives of Roxbury. Coming to Northfield 23 years ago he was married to Mamie Allen by Rev. I. P. Booth. His wife survives him. The deceased for many years was a truckman and for some years in the employ of the American Express company, delivering the express in the village. Besides his wife he is survived by one sister, Miss Della, and three brothers, William, Julius and Charles, all of St. Albans. The funeral was held Sunday from his late home, Rev. Walter Dole officiating; interment was in Elmwood cemetery, the bearers being Charles and Julius Wiley, and George Tilden and Clinton Brackett of Roxbury.

Mrs. L. S. Sparhawk, Miss Blanche Sparhawk and John B. are in Burlington and Barre this week visiting friends.

Mrs. Roy Neville of Keene, N. H., has been passing a few days with her family at A. G. Putnam; returned to her home on Wednesday.

H. W. Totman has been made superintendent of the water system and will take up his duties on Thursday of this week. Mr. Totman retires because of inability to longer have the care of the business.

Mrs. J. E. McCall and Mrs. Chaussey went to Waterbury on Wednesday to call upon Winnie Ripley at the asylum there and make some arrangement for her removal home if she is in a suitable condition.

Mrs. Arthur Hollins visited at the home of W. E. Lamson on Wednesday morning went to East Granville for a brief visit with her father, Lucius Webb, after which she will return to her home in Somerville, Mass.

The water in the reservoir has gained about 12 inches in the last ten days and since the shutting off of all the water. It is hoped that in the near future other springs will be purchased by the village and connection made before the setting in of the winter season.

While Birch Fisher was at work on the building being repaired on Dudley street on Monday afternoon he lost his balance and fell backward from the second floor and received quite serious injuries on the head and cracked several ribs.

At the board of trade meeting at the office of Dr. Blanchard on Tuesday night F. H. Ketchum was there and reported for the Gayville Electric Light Co. that it would be impossible for the next few months to furnish house light for the entire night owing to the steam power not being sufficiently large. It is proposed to furnish them for the evening and again for an hour or so in the morning, till greater power can be furnished. The contract calls for all night service for house lights and street lights till 2:30 in the morning.

They say that figures will not lie,
No doubt—if they're correctly added,
And still I can't imagine why
They say that figures will not lie.
For tallomades do satisfy
When they're artistically padded,
They say that figures do not lie,
No doubt—when they're correctly added.

If madam owns to 39
You'll say that she does not appear
at all.
But on her age you get a line
If madam owns to 29.
I don't say it is any sign
She's 40—but she's mighty near it.
If madam owns to 29,
You'll say that she does not appear
at all.

She says her feet aren't cramped in 2s,
That figure is a bit mendacious,
Remark upon her tiny shoes,
She says her feet aren't cramped in 2s,
That's not the number she will choose.
She finds that 3s are none too spacious.
She says her feet aren't cramped in 2s,
That figure is a bit mendacious.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

"The Lion and the Mouse" at Barre Opera House, November 12.

The success of "The Lion and the Mouse" which will be seen at the opera house November 12, is an interesting study. Ida Tarbell's father was a small oil producer in Pennsylvania. The Standard Oil company drove him to poverty and death. His daughter Ida went to New York and became a writer. She attracted the attention of S. S. McClure, owner of McClure's Magazine. She wasn't pretty, but she had brains. McClure is a judge of brains. He engaged her, and started her on the history of the Standard Oil company. Her article appeared in McClure's magazine for many months. They were a terrible exposé of the methods of modern, legalized pirates. Miss Tarbell was sent for by Rogers, of the Standard Oil company. She went to his office, as Shirley Roosevelt goes to the house of Ryder, in "The Lion and the Mouse." Nothing doing. Miss Tarbell could not be coaxed, flattered, bullied or bought. The articles continued to appear. They were eagerly read by Thomas W. Lawson, and inspired his "Frenzied Finance" articles, which made "Everybody's Magazine" the talk of the world. Those articles inspired Charles Klein. Result: "The Lion and the Mouse." Query: Who wrote the play? Miss Tarbell, Mr. Lawson, Mr. Klein, or Mr. Rogers? Ryder, in the play, is certainly Lawson's Rogers. Anyway, it is a great play, and is only in its fourth year of unprecedented success. That is, in its infancy.

EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, the Statement of This Barre Citizen Will Interest You.

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back?

In the "small," right over the hips?

That's the home of backache.

It's caused by sick kidneys.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Barre people endorse this. Read a case of it:

Mrs. Margaret Reid, 40 Maple avenue, Barre, Vt., says: "I gave a statement in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in 1905, and I am glad to confirm it at this time. For more than three years I was bothered off and on by backaches and at night I would suffer so intensely that I could not sleep. During damp weather I was always worse and although I wore plasters, I obtained only temporary relief. When Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me, I procured a box at E. A. Brown's drug store. They relieved me in a short time and I continued taking them until the pain in my back was entirely relieved."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMurray Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CHELSEA

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sprague of East Brookfield came Tuesday evening to visit at the home of their son, W. H. Sprague.

At Tuesday's election there were 235 votes cast in this town with the following result: 196 for Taft, 39 for Bryan, 2 for Hagen and 2 for Chaffin. Among the voters was Uncle Elisha Mattoon, who is 94 years old and who marked his own ballot without the aid of ballot clerks or glasses.

The members of the Reading Circle met Wednesday evening, October 28th and were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. W. P. Townsend. And after a bountiful supper, they were treated to a literary menu consisting of ensonnetts, riddles, and a special tongue and other intricate stunts which made the evening pass all too quickly and was one long to be remembered. Her original representations of book titles especially taxed the wit of the women, and the "women of wit."

SILAGE FOR MILK COWS.

Most Profitable Way to Feed This Valuable Ration.

By M. A. GOODRICH.

Perhaps there is more benefit derived from silage by feeding it to milk cows than by feeding it to any other kind of stock. At any rate, it is used more and thought more of by dairymen than by any other class of farmers.

Cows should never be fed exclusively on silage. They need some dry forage to go with it; they need a variety. Besides this, corn silage is a carbonaceous food and needs more nitrogenous food to go with it to make a well balanced ration. About thirty or at most forty pounds a day of silage is as much as should be fed to each cow. It should be fed from the top of the silo, taking off about two inches in depth from the entire surface each day. For if it is long exposed to the air it will be damaged. If the feeding commences immediately after filling the silo—and this is a good way to do it—there will be no damaged silage at all. Care should be taken at each time of feeding to leave the surface smooth and even and not pick and stir it up with the fork, for that will let in the air and cause damage.

My way is to feed the silage ration in two feeds, both night and morning, and it is better to feed after milking, because the peculiar odor of the silage might affect the flavor of the milk.

Cows as well as other stock have a wonderful liking for silage, and I believe much of the success in feeding it can be attributed to its palatability. They even prefer it, to a certain extent at least, to fresh cut forage or good grass in the pasture. I have seen cows in June when on good pasture which had been fed silage every day come to the gate at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and bellow and ask to come to the barn and get silage, which they would eat greedily and apparently with great relish. I have seen the experiment tried of offering the cows at the same time corn cut fresh from the fields and silage that was put up the year before. Every cow chose the silage and ate that first. It is true these cows had been fed silage every day all summer, and it may be the habit of eating silage had something to do with their preferring it, but they surely would not have done it if silage had not been pretty good feed.

There is a better and cheaper feed to supplement short pastures, which we are almost sure to have every summer on account of drought or other causes, than good silage. I know some of the most successful dairymen in the country who feed silage every day in the year, winter as well as summer.

General Farm Items.

Only good, sound apples should be used for cider.

The amount of humus in the soil indicates in great measure its richness in nitrogen.

It is claimed that exposed manure loses about one-sixth of its phosphoric acid and more than one-third of its phosphate.

A well can be driven in hard wood by dipping the point in hard or soft. An acre of soil nine inches deep of ordinary fertility is estimated to weigh about 3,000,000 pounds and contains about 2,000 pounds of nitrogen, 3,000 pounds of phosphoric acid and 6,000 pounds of potash.

According to 1907 statistics, there are at the present time 19,726,000 horses in the United States. This is a gain of 10 per cent during ten years.

CAPTAIN BURR'S INJURY.

It Presents a Problem Hard to Overestimate, Says Harvard Crimson.

In discussing Captain Burr's injury, the Harvard Crimson says editorially: "The injury to Captain Burr, which at first appeared to be merely a wrench of the arm, has proved to be more serious. On closer examination it was found that the shoulder itself was badly injured, and one of the two of the ligaments torn. This being the case, it is impossible for him to play against either Carlisle or Dartmouth, but it does not prevent the possibility of his being able to play against Yale at New Haven on the 21st. The tearing of the ligaments which has taken place will take considerable time to heal, but it remains to be seen how rapidly they will knit together again. From present indications it seems to be about an even chance that he will be in the line-up in the final game."

It presents a problem for the coaches and the team which is hard to overestimate. To be deprived of a line-man of three years' experience, whose kicking alone, measured in terms of ground gained, is invaluable, and in addition, a real leader and captain—it is hard to imagine a more serious blow. The two games in the coming fortnight will test Harvard's strength to the limit, and with Burr out of the line-up it will be doubly hard. It is hoped that he will be able to play the Yale game, at least for part of the game, but the immediate question is to develop a guard and a man who can hope to hold his own against good punters till then.

On Saturday, the team played without him and showed an ability to forget their handicap, which was capital. There was a splendid aggressiveness and determination evident, culminating in the rush which scored the touchdown, and which moreover was the best executed attack seen on Soldiers' field by a Harvard team in several years. In spite of certain failings, some of which were marked, there was an admirable quality in the way they went about their work and that is the secret of good teams. Moreover, it signifies the way they will accept the handicap in the coming two weeks, and gives one confidence that the situation is by no means hopeless.
